NEWS LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENTS

COLUMBUS, O.—All candidates for office will have "weighed in" by 8:30 o'clock, p. m. Friday, June 13th, also they will be all out of luck, for that is the dead line for filing nomination petitions in the office of Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown. Anyone desiring to be a candidate thereafter will have to secure eight per cent of the vote cast at the primary by having their name written in on the ballot and having a plurality over any other candidates.

Warden Preston E. Thomas of the Ohio Penitentiary states that satisfactory progress is being made in reconstruction work at the big penitentiary and the new I and K cell blocks will soon be completed as will also the new fire-proof roofs over the E and F dormitory. The official count discloses 3,780 inmates as compared to approximately 5,000 a few weeks before the disastrous prison fire on Easter Monday.

Members of the library group of the Ohioana committee met recently at the Governor's mansion when reports were made of books received and a list of Ohio authors was presented by the Chairman, Mrs. Dewey Head, who has arranged a comprehensive file listing one thousand Ohio authors and their books. The first section of the Ohioana library has been placed in the Governor's mansion and consists of 250 volumes, books both new and old, some very rare volumes now out of print. The library is being established without funds or appropriation and the committee desires that every one in Ohio will feel that they have an interest in assembling this unique collection. It has been decided that one section of the library be devoted to books about Ohioans who have been presidents of the United States.

Seven men endeavor to preserve peace and decorum in the Capitol building and State House grounds. They are referred to as "Capitol Police" and five of them served throughout the Spanish-American war. The grounds and buildings are closed to the public after eleven o'clock p. m. when loungers on the steps and benches are requested to leave. When the guards make their rounds in the morning they frequently find an accumulation of containers that might be envied by an antique bottle collector.

Harry D. Hale, executive clerk in the office of Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown, has accepted an invitation to preside as chairman at the opening ceremonies of the State Aerie Convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, to be held in the High School Auditorium at Newark, on Sunday evening, June 22, the welcome address to be delivered by Major Robbins Hunter with response by worthy State President Gerald C. EARL COLLINS IS PRESIDENT C. G. ALUMNI

The annual meeting of the Alumni of Cedarville College was held last Friday afternoon at the alumni dinner and banquet at the Alford gym. Other new officers elected are: first vice-president, Dr. Marshall, Cedarville; second vice-president, Day Kennedy, Coulterville; recording secretary and treasurer, Miss Avenelle Brigner, Cedarville; corresponding secretary, Miss Avenelle Brigner, Cedarville; and Miss Avenelle Brigner, Cedarville, president of the C. G. Alumni.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Barber and Miss Katherine Hughes, of this place, and Miss Eloise Parquhar, of London, were among the guests present at the Justice Harris wedding in Xenia, Saturday evening.

Covers for 114 persons were laid at the banquet at 1 o'clock at which members of the 1930 graduating class and the college faculty were honored guests.

As retiring president of the association, the Rev. Gavin Reilly acted as master of ceremonies during the program which followed the luncheon. The address of welcome to the incoming members of the association was delivered by Earl Collins, the new president, and Dallas Marshall, president of the graduating class, gave the response.

Next on the program was a vocal solo by Mrs. William Anderson, Xenia, and Mrs. Mildred Foster, Yellow Springs, after which the main address was delivered by the Rev. William Wallace Hille, D. D., Chicago, Ill., who spoke on the subject, "What Is Wrong With Chicago?"

Dr. Hille laid some facts about his city that were interesting and his denunciation of his city as well as a lot of good people as well as a lot of bad people. With one of the largest cities in the world the number of violators is no greater and compared with many cities has a lower per centage of crime.

The program continued with a vocal solo by Mrs. Eleanor Johnson, Cedarville, after which President W. R. McChesney gave the closing speech on the subject of a "Greater Cedarville College."

Plans for the campaign for a bigger and better college were presented and discussed with a view to giving impetus to the successful launching of a drive to raise $750,000 within the next five years for endowment and new buildings. The alumni association pledged its support to the campaign.

Features of the afternoon were reunions of practically all the classes from 1897 until the present. The calling of the class rolls was another innovation.

The gymnasium was attractively decorated for the occasion, a color scheme of orange and blue, the college colors, being carried out most effectively. Orange daisies and delphiniums were also used.

The luncheon was served by the women's advisory board of the college.

OLD MAN SUNSHINE, OR OLD MAN GLOOM

"Good morning, I'm glad you asked me," said the pulverized sugar, "I'm feeling fine." "I feel run down," said the clock. "And I feel rather seedy," said the raisin. "Well, you'd better not say too much," said the bread gratefully. "I'm feeling rather crusty." "I never felt keener in my life," said the knife-sharply. "Here too," jammed in the nut chopper, "I feel like cutting up." "And I feel very bright," chirped the sun. "If you don't mind slang," said the toy balloon, "I will say that I feel swell." "For my part, I feel very light," said the feather. "I don't," said the hammer, "my head feels very heavy." "You haven't heard from me," reflected the mirror, "and the reason is because I feel like reflecting." "I feel like going out," gasped the lamp. "I feel all unstrung," the old fiddle chimed in. "And I'm all worn out," said the old shoe. "Good morning everybody," blew in the old milk bottle, "I'm glad to hear that some of you are feeling so well, and I am sorry to hear others complaining. I try to be cheerful under all circumstances, but I admit that I feel put out every morning." And so it is with human beings, some of us always feel fine, but others always find an excuse to complain.

Rich Picking For Clinton County Gang; Scandal Reaches $136,003

Clinton county politicians have had rich picking during the past few years according to a report of the examiners which shows the county has been wronged to the amount of $136,003.

Harry Gaskill, county auditor, a leader in the Pemberton political ring, is now serving time in prison, and is charged with appropriating nearly $30,000. Gaskill and the three county commissioners are held jointly for more than $26,000.

Two men connected with the scandal have committed suicide and Clayton Terrell, county commissioner was found guilty last week and is awaiting sentence. Other cases are yet to be heard.

The Clinton county situation is said to be the worst uncovered in the state for years. A $15,000 iron bridge was paid for but never delivered, the officials forging the name of a bridge company. It is also reported officials are now trying to check the sale of 80 cars of coal which it is contended never have been delivered by the railroads.

Pemberton, a former citizen of that county, reigned with a high hand in both political parties. He is now a resident of Columbus and operates about the state house as a lobbyist for various interests. For years he represented the Cincinnati liquor interests as a lobbyist.

Twelve Inning Game Is Pitcher's Battle

It took twelve innings last Friday afternoon for the Antioch baseball team to defeat the College "Yellow Jackets." It was a pitcher's battle throughout.

In the twelfth Confer walked and Fyfe broke up the mound duel with his second triple of the game which scored the Antioch pitcher with the winning marker.

Antioch opened the scoring with a three-run spree in the third. Faurot walked and Fyfe smacked a long blow to center that went for a three-bagger.

In the last of the fifth the Yellow-Jackets tallied two runs on a single by B. Turner, a triple by Rife and W. Boyer's double. At this point Pavey, starting pitcher for Antioch, was replaced by Confer and this turned out to be a wise move on Coach Dawson's part. Confer stopped further scoring in this inning and held Cedarville to three hits in the seventh innings he labored on the bill.

Antioch scored again in the sixth when Goldberg opened with a single, was forced at second by Roosa and Pavey singled. Pavey had gone to third base when Confer was transferred to the mound.

Cedarville, however, was not yet through and finally evened the score by tallying one run in the eighth and another in the ninth.

Osborn started in the box for Cedarville but gave way to Garlough. Each team collected nine hits.

Ray Goldberg, outfielder, was Antioch's leading hitter with three hits, all singles in six trips to the rubber. He was also hit by pitched balls three times but was called for interference.

Score by innings:
Antioch 0 3 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 1—5
Cedarville 0 0 0 2 0 0 1 0 0 0—4
Batteries—Antioch: Pavey, Confer and Coskery; Cedarville: Osborn, Garlough and W. Boyer.

District Democrats Nominate Congressman

The Democrats of the seventh congressional district met in Springfield Wednesday and for the first time in several years nominated Charles Zimmerman for congress. It is said the unpopularity of Cong. Brand in the district gave the Democrats hope of victory this fall. The district is regarded one of the strongest from a Republican standpoint in the country.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Bauman of Creve Coeur, Mo., have been spending the week with friends here.

FRIDAY LAST DAY FOR ENTRY PRIMARY RACE

Candidates for the various state, congressional, judicial and county offices must have their nomination petitions on file today.

In the state the usual list of candidates for state offices can be expected with Gov. Cooper a candidate for a second term. George White, Marietta, will be the leading contender for the Democratic nomination.

Judge Albert H. Kunkle, Springfield, will be unopposed for member of the Court of Appeals, so far as is heard. The district comprises several counties.

After weeks of contention the congressional situation in the Seventh District has settled down to Probate Judge Harry Gram against the present incumbent, Charles Brand, Urbana, who is after his fifth term. Brand's campaign has been in the hands of Mal Daugherty, Washington C. H., whose bank was closed several days ago and D. C. Pemberton, former liquor lobbyist, and boss in Clinton county, where the gang is charged with graft and illegal contracts totaling $136,000. As Brand has been very strong in these two counties, political observers are awaiting to see what the drift of sentiment is to be.

From surface indications there will be three candidates for county commissioners: John A. North was the first to announce and served one term a few years ago. He has been in business in Xenia for many years. Chester Jacobs, prominent farmer in Beaver Creek township, is listed as a candidate and County Commissioner Herman Eavey will seek his third term.

For county auditor, P. H. Creswell has filed for his first elective term. He had served as deputy and was appointed last July to succeed R. O. Wead, who resigned to become Deputy State Auditor. Political circles had it that George Eckler will make another try for the office he being an opponent when Mr. Wead was elected last.

Marcus McCallister, prominent young attorney in Xenia, has filed for prosecuting attorney and is said to have the backing of most of the attorneys. He has been practicing in the office of the late Judge James P. Kyle.

Harold M. Van Felt, the efficient and accommodating young deputy in the county treasurer's office under the present treasurer, Miss Helen Dodds, has announced. He previously had experience as a deputy in the county auditor's office. He lives near Spring Valley but has made a wide acquaintance since being deputy treasurer.

B. F. Thomas is seeking re-election as a candidate at the primary for County Recorder, a position he has filled to the satisfaction of most people in the county. He will have as his opponent Wolf, Xenia, a former railroad engineer.

Two entries are sure for sheriff, the present deputy, George Sugden, who has served with satisfaction under Sheriff Ohmer Tate and John Baughn a former deputy who was defeated by Tate four years ago. It is almost certain that two other candidates will file before the closing time if reports can be relied upon.

Candidates for central committee from each precinct in the county have filed and most of them will seek re-election. In Cedarville, Harry Lewis is the candidate and in the township, A. H. Creswell.

For State Representative R. D. Williamson has filed his primary petition and has the backing of the farm interests as well as the business interests. The importance of a new tax law to be enacted under classification will make the coming legislature the most important in the history of the state. Only one other candidate is mentioned and that is Carrie Flatter who in the past has been active in Republican primary elections and on the Democratic side in the November elections.

STOCK GAMBLING WRECKS CITY BANK

The news story this week of the closing of a state bank in Cincinnati where a shortage of $1,500,000 is reported brings the number of bank failures to about one a week for the past few weeks, an unusual record in Ohio. It is a record that casts a creditable reflection on the Ohio State Banking Department.

Once again the stock market slump is given as the direct cause of the bank failure, one depositor, a stock gambling speculator, is found to be overdrawn nearly $600,000. Even though his amount seems to be quite large it was too small for even a bank examiner to find until the disaster was more than the bank could stand.

About the worst thing that can happen a community, large or small, is a bank failure where hundreds of depositors have their savings and most frequently stockholders must shoulder a heavy financial burden.

We are evidently living in an age wherein small gambling is a looked upon as a greater curse than stock speculation or gambling in what we call the "market". While whole communities may suffer from a bank failure and good business in that section brought to a standstill yet a few dollars bet on a horse race or a dog race is even a greater sin than murder in the first degree. If one is wrong the other is wrong and if one is permitted the other should be but the public had first better consider a form of gambling that can wreck a whole community than where a few men engage in betting a couple of dollars on the horse or dog form of gambling. In Ohio officials from the highest to the lowest have selected the dog racing as a target yet within almost sight of Columbus we find horse racing using the customary gambling machine found at dog tracks and no one makes a protest.

Certain political leaders point to the present business depression as a result of stock gambling yet you have never heard of even an attempt being made to check it. Even one Southern Bishop was caught gambling in a New York bucket shop that had failed and when brought before a church court was given a clean record, probably due to the fact that his punishment was sufficient in losing several thousand dollars on the market. The action of the church court was nothing more than approval of that kind of "investment" that wrecked the Cincinnati bank this week.

As long as the public is to be satisfied with picking on the little forms of gambling alone and permitting the big game to operate unmolested, it can expect a continuance of all forms of gambling, the result to be what it will.

UNCLE CHARLEY'S CAMPAIGN ENGINEER

Shouters, exhorters and followers of Congressman Charles Brand should not over look the Congressman's political campaign engineer, the Honorable D. C. Pemberton, former liquor lobbyist, political boss of Clinton county, whose county official crew of office holders ran up a shortage of $136,000 at the expense of Clinton county taxpayers.

After reviewing the Clinton county situation a trip into Fayette county and the unpleasant situation of the blow-up of the Mal Daugherty bank that caught several hundred depositors unaware. Mal spoke right out in a recent meeting in Springfield in behalf of his friend, Congressman Brand, who has enjoyed so much prosperity in Congress that he recently purchased another farm of 350 acres with a twenty room brick mansion for a summer home, while other farm owners in his district can hardly pay their taxes.

Clinton county commissioners paid for a $15,000 iron bridge which was never made and of course never delivered. An effort is now being made to locate thirty cars of coal that have been paid for and according to railroad records have never been delivered.

If everyone is satisfied with political conditions in the Seventh Congressional district an affirmative vote should be recorded next August when the primary is held. A change in congressman can make matters no worse and you run the chance of improving conditions both in the district and in Congress.

Fear, Strange Thing

Ocean Air Travel, Perhaps

The world needs little and big things.

It needs little brooks to create loveliness; great Niagara to create power.

It needs little fortunes for millions of happy and useful families; big fortunes, with power, to do really big things.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. has offered to New York city land for parks and buildings to the value of $12,000,000.

One enormous tract of fifty-six acres in Manhattan could not be duplicated.

Seven million dollars' worth of land and five million dollars' worth of buildings, including the magnificent new building for the Gothic art treasures of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, make a considerable gift. You must have many millions to do that.

Fear works strangely.

Amy Johnson, English girl, twenty-three, flew all alone in her little Gypsy

Moth plane from England to Australia, ten thousand miles, without fear or hesitation.

Hurricanes, lightning, fogs, wide oceans, deserts, jungles; all meant nothing to that girl.

But when a radio hookup was all arranged and the world was listening, little Miss Johnson ran away.

"I'm afraid," said she.

Henry Ford says business conditions are improving rapidly. "A lot of these fellows were fooling around with the stock market, and they got caught—badly caught. They had to go to work again. Now they have been at work, and they are beginning to enjoy it."

Business is improving, according to Mr. Ford, because intelligent people that were gambling are now working.

John D. Rockefeller lives quietly, plays golf, leaving men younger than ninety-one to run Standard Oil. But he keeps track of the world and when he advises he advises wisely. Much wisdom was condensed into the few words he said to a player in his foursome, "Be deliberate" and "Talk less and play better." That is a good

"How to succeed" recipe.

Young ladies, graduating in a college for women, are urged by Rev.

Dr. Robert Parrish to "be brain and money women."

We owe much of education, science and art to rich men, says the doctor, and must not "despise wealth."

No tendency to despise wealth is visible in this country. But many still maintain that the "brain and money woman" is not as desirable as the "charm and baby woman."

Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel company, Charles M.

Schwab's creation, declined to answer questions about his salary. Lawyers

"None of your business."

Once the mention of a $1,000,000

shakes nobody. Everything is a mata year for your employer, you are worth about $2,500.

If you earn $5,000,000 a year, you 000.

A COLOR FOR EVERY ILL

YOU remember Cous who a few years ago gave us a new slogan with his "every day, in every way, I am getting better and better."

From the small beginnings of a cult of auto-suggestion and self-confidence,

Cous is branching out to cure everything—both physical and mental ills, and with single colors.

Indeed we have definite news from Paris that prominent Couesists are about to launch upon the world their new theory of using colors to cure anything, including insanity.

For people with unbalanced minds,

the best cure, according to a prominent Cous professor, is the simple method of having curtains tablecloth, bedclothes, in orange. And each room should have a bowl of oranges in the center. Upon waking in the morning the patient should first gaze upon the bowl for about ten minutes. The healing effect will be noticeable, we are told, in two weeks.

Rheumatism can be cured by concentrating for ten minutes, three times a day on a sheet of light blue paper. Rheingins should also be of this color, for this purpose.

Dis honesty is eradicated in the same way, only the color must be lily-white. Kleptomaniacs, according to our information from Paris, are easy subjects to cure in this same manner.

For inferiority complex, red is the color that will cure. The same is recommended to a man who has fears, such as to "crossing streets, in speaking to his employers, or facing his wife."

That's all that has been given out so far. But there are so many colors, and so many ills and faults that need cure. I think I shall send to Paris to the Couesists a list of questions to cover some of the most pressing and immediate ills, the proper color to cure which would be gratefully received. It would go something like this:

When people don't like to work,

what color please?

For friction in the home, what color shall one gaze on to bring peace?

For the extravagant wife—what shade will give her a true perspective?

For frivolous modern youth—what color will make them serious?

For boredom—what color shall we concentrate upon to become interested?

"Konjola is certainly the good medi-

"For years I had a bad case of stom-of Konjola.

"I began taking Konjola through

Honey Bees Behave Well This Summer

Show Very Little Tendency to Swarm—Crop Prospects Not Bright, However

Honey bees are better behaved this spring and early summer than they have been for four years. Very little tendency of colonies to swarm is being reported to Virgil N. Argo, extension specialist in beekeeping for the Ohio State University, who attributes this unusual condition to the long period of dry weather.

Although this dry weather is very beneficial to the bees, so far, Argo expects a short honey crop on account of the good weather has given the bees an opportunity to fly out regularly every day and as a result, in most parts of Ohio, large quantities of dandelion honey have been stored and strong colonies built up, he says. But, in Argo's opinion, before the season is over the drought will show its effect in a short crop of honey from white and alkali covers, two favorite honey sources, which have been developing slowly.

"The beekeeper who has colonies built up to their maximum strength will have a much better chance to get a crop of honey in a short year, than the beekeeper who has weaker colonies," says Argo. "It takes strong colonies, boiling over with bees, to get all the available nectar in a light honey flow. In a year of long continued honey flow, weaker colonies may build up at the beginning of the flow and be able to harvest a fair crop before the season is over, but not in a dry year."

SERVING MANY BUSINESSES

Experience of large fleet owners reveals the unusual reliability and economy of the new Ford

A SIGNIFICANT TRIBUTE to the value of the new Ford is found in its increasing use by Federal, state and city governments and by large industrial companies which keep careful day-by-day cost records. In most instances, the Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests of every factor that contributes to good performance—speed, power, safety, comfort, low cost of operation and up-keep, reliability and long life.

Prominent among the companies using the Ford are the Associated Companies of the Bell System, Armour and Company, The Borden Company, Continental Baking Corporation, Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, General Electric Company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Kellogg Company, Knickerbocker Ice Company, Morton Salt Company, Pillsbury Flour Mills Company, The Procter and Gamble Company, and Swift & Company.

Each of these companies uses a large number of Ford cars and trucks. The Associated Companies of the Bell System use more than eight thousand.

Modern business moves at a fast pace and it needs the Ford. Daily, in countless ways and places, it helps to speed the production and delivery of the world's goods and extend the useful service of men and companies.

Constant, steady operation over many thousands of miles emphasizes the advantages of the sound design of the Ford car, its high quality materials, and unusual accuracy in manufacturing. Beneath its graceful lines and beautiful colors there is a high degree of mechanical excellence.

An example of the value built into the Ford is the use of more than twenty ball and roller bearings. They are hidden within the car and you may never see them. Yet they play an important part in satisfactory, economical performance. Their function is similar to the jewels of a fine watch.

Throughout the Ford chassis, a ball or roller bearing is used at every place where it is needed to reduce friction and wear and give smooth, reliable mechanical operation.

Lesson for June 15
JESUS ON THE CROSS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 27:1-54.
GOLDEN TEXT—Looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith, who for the joy that was set before him, endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus on the Cross.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus on the Cross.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Suffering of the Cross.
YOUNG PEOPLE'S AND ADULT TOPIC—Calvary.

The grand climax of the six months' lessons is reached. To miss the significance of the crucifixion of Christ will be to render valueless all the preceding lessons. It is not a matter of learning the lessons taught by a great teacher or imitating the examples of great and good men, but of apprehending the redemption made by the world's Redeemer.

I. The Place of Crucifixion. (vv. 28, 31).
They led him away to Golgotha, a hill north of Jerusalem, resembling a skull. He was crucified "without the gate" (Heb. 13:12). At first He was compelled to bear His own cross, but when physical weakness made it impossible for Him to continue, they compelled Simon the Cyrenaeen to bear it for Him (v. 32). In order to strengthen Him for the ordeal before He was nailed to the cross, the soldiers offered Him a stimulant of vinegar mixed with gall. He refused the stimulant offered and consciously drank the cup of sin to its bitter dregs.

II. Gambling for the Clothing of the Lord (vv. 35, 36).
It was the custom for the soldiers who had charge of a crucifixion to receive the garments of the one crucified. We have here a fulfillment of Psalm 22:18. What sacrifice for them to gamble for His seamless robe under the very cross where He was dying!

III. The Accusation (v. 37).
It was customary to place over the victim on the cross his name and indicate his crime. This superscription was placed over Jesus by Pilate to vex the Jews. He was their King in absolute truth. They had long looked for Him and now, when the soldiers of this is the kind of treatment they gave Him.

IV. Two Malefactors Crucified With Him (v. 38).
We are not told who they were. Perhaps they belonged to the band of Barabbas. This was another fulfillment of Scripture (Isa. 53:12). In these three crosses we have set forth a spiritual history of the whole world.

V. The Dying Savior Reviled (vv. 39-44).
This reviling was engaged in by the passersby, the chief priests, the scribes, elders, and the malefactors who were crucified with Him.
1. "He saved others; Himself He cannot save" (v. 42).
This jest was meant to show the absurdity of Jesus' claims, but it demonstrated truth. They had long looked for His suffering. He could not save Himself and others, so He chose to give Himself to save others.

2. "If he be the king of Israel, let him now come down from the cross" (v. 42). His refusal to abandon the cross established His rightful claims. The devil offered him the kingdoms of the world if he would escape the cross (Matt. 4:8-10). Through His death He came into His place of kingship over all who bow to Him.

3. "He trusted in God. Let him deliver him now" (v. 43).
His obedience to the death was the sacrifice which met God's full approval.

VI. The Death of Christ (vv. 45-50).
Who is sufficient to comment upon this tragedy! Let us contemplate it in adoration and wonder. So shocking was this crime that nature trembled. The Son of God, a shroud that the godless company could not gaze upon him. Darkness was upon the land at noonday. Upon the termination of the darkness, He cried with a loud voice, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" He secures sin for the world and the world's sin hid God's face from Him. God forsaken Him, turned from Him who had taken the sinner's place. God was dealing with sin on the innocent substitute. No one can understand that but God, but we can believe. When the price of sin was paid, He cried out with a loud voice, showing that He still had vitality; that His death was not from exhaustion, but by His sovereign will. He yielded up the ghost and sent away His spirit.

June Is Not Too Late For Sowing

Ries Names Dozen Annuals Which Will Bloom Freely Before Frost Comes

June is not too late for sowing some annual flowers which will produce bloom profusely before the frost cuts them down, suggests Victor H. Ries, extension floriculturist for the Ohio State University.

Ries suggests a dozen plants which if sowed now will provide color in the home garden late in the summer. They are the Candytuft, Calendula, Calliopsis, Dimorphotheca, Gypsophylla, Cornflower, Poppy, Mignonette, Portulaca, Philox, Alyssum, and California Poppy.

In order to make the most of the short growing season which remains to them, these annuals will need the very best of care and attention after they have been planted, Ries suggests. They should have the best possible location in the garden, a little water and just a little shade in case of drought. Further, they should be well cultivated and liberally fertilized.

Odds Ten To One On Better Cows

It Takes Whole Herd of 250
Pound Class To Equal
One 500 Pounder

The odds are ten to one in favor of the high producing dairy cow. Van Wert County dairymen found this out when they summarized a year's records of the county herd improvement association tests.

The records showed, reports V. R. Phares, county extension agent, that "at current feed prices and under existing conditions, a cow in Van Wert County producing 250 pounds of butterfat a year nets her owner only $10.81 for the year after deducting feed costs, taxes, interest on investment, and all overhead expenses. Under these same conditions, one cow producing 350 pounds of butterfat in the year would make the same profit as five 250-pound cows, and one cow producing 500 pounds of butterfat in the year would be as profitable as 10 of the 250 pound cows.

"Yet," says Phares, "it is sometimes difficult to convince a farmer that he can sell off 10 cows which produce 250 pounds of butterfat a year, buy one 500-pound cow, and make as much money as before, with one-tenth the stock, so I side-slipped the old crate down through the pen soap, cut the gun and set her down for as next I three-point pancake as ever I made."—Capper's Weekly.

Home Ownership Makes
for Superior Citizenship

The lure to own a home is as inherent in the mind of the average man and woman as the desire to live. All down through the ages man has sought to create for himself and his family a place of protection against the elements and danger—with the result that the idea of home has become so indelibly fixed in the mind of the average individual it becomes a matter of pride to own a home.

Is this ever-mounting pride of home ownership the result of the great changes that take place in our larger American cities. We see neighborhoods once looked upon as beautiful residential centers. The style of the homes was once the latest. But in a few years we see these sections abandoned by the original owners, who have moved to other sections, newer and more modern. The older sections are then filled with a citizenship which has moved from some other sections perhaps less desirable, and so on. The endless desire to own a home which can be looked upon with pride by its owner goes on and on.

Statistics prove home ownership usually leads to more happiness and better citizenship. For it is pointed out that usually when a man owns a home he is pretty dependable and reliable.

Trees Have Large Place in Town's Appearance

Colonel Sherrill is a lover of trees. He believes that a tree-adorned city will make for the health and happiness of its citizens. He is asking council to repossess authority in him to have planted a tree for each of his friends of life, wherever possible, along the city streets. No gift of provision is essential to the foretelling of what this would mean to the city from the present year through generations to come.

To this latitude some of the noblest and most beautiful trees in the world are indigenous. Those cities far-heralded throughout the world as cities of charm and beauty are municipalities which have resolved tree planting, care, culture and preservation into tenets of scientific practicality.

Cincinnati's environment among the most beautiful in the world, with their prospects of artistic landscapes, their hills and wooded views, the silver gleams of reaching rivers. But arboreal and other natural loveliness cannot be restricted to our hills and contiguous terrain. Why? Why should a city's streets remain drab, dusty, desolate of fresh harmony of whispering foliage, the grace and symmetry of swaying branches?—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Air-Marking Towns

The problem of getting towns air-marked is quite ponderous and important. It is one that the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce has been wrestling with since it undertook the coordination of commercial aviation enterprise. The energy devoted to the solution has been far from wasted. It has resulted in the air-marking of several hundred communities.

Cross-country flying, however, has attained such a volume that it becomes obvious that the problem will not be fully solved until every hamlet, village, town and city points its name skyward. Consequently, reinforcing the efforts of the Commerce department branch, other agencies have thrown their concerted energies into the solution of the problem.

Proper Building Important
The architectural design and structural efficiency of office and factory buildings as well as homes have an important bearing on the health of the community, says the American Architect, commenting editorially on the recent estimate that the nation's annual loss from illness approximates $15,000,000,000.

"There are fewer greater causes of sickness than lack of ventilation, poor lighting, drafts and other such preventable factors," says the magazine, pointing out that false economy on the part of owners who insist on cheap construction often results in loss of workers' time of far greater value than the amount saved by reducing construction expense.

No Need to Fear Upkeep
"Upkeep" is a word often pronounced with the peculiar solemnity that once belonged to "mortgage," implying a mysterious and fearful something. To the imprudent it hangs over the homes like an evil spirit. But the foresighted know the truth. They know that it isn't upkeep that costs, but failure to upkeep.

Good Plan First Need
The secret of the successful house, if there is a secret, is in its plan. First the plan, then the house. If a house is well planned, an impressive exterior in any period or style desired can easily be adapted to it.

What, Careless?
The per capita cost of fires in the United States is at least three times that of any other country. The average annual loss during the last five years has been well over $500,000,000.—Country Home.

THE BACK YARD GARDENER

Water Gardens, Fountains, Seats, Pots and Other Ornaments Are of Great Importance in the Small Home Garden.

Room for Garden in Any Back Yard

Size does not limit a garden's beauty. However small the space or unfavorable the location at the disposal of an earnest gardener, something can be grown there which will give pleasure.

The small garden often calls for a greater effort to produce an artistic and attractive result, just as in the furnishing and decoration of a small room in the house, we take more care in each detail of the effect. When successful we are repaid by the small garden, as by the little room, with an intimacy and association not always felt in more spacious surroundings.

Everything is seen closely in the small garden. A single plant or flower becomes the subject of attention rather than the mass of the border. More care must be taken to remove minor imperfections, but there is less care to care. Color schemes may be more easily be handled and close attention to color will be well repaid here.

Pots, seats and ornaments become of great importance in the small garden. It is important to keep them in scale. An oversize ornament will dwarf the garden; proportion must be carefully considered in every detail of design.

It is not always possible to grow grass in small gardens. But areas paved with flagstones, brick or other suitable surfacing may still be gardens. Many plants will thrive where grass refuses to do so. And where the soil conditions refuse to allow plants to be set in the ground they can be grown in pots or tubs. Adverse conditions can usually be overcome.

Small gardens have the sanction of antiquity. Many homes of ancient Pompeii had tiny court gardens. A description has survived in which it is said: "Sometimes a mere tablecloth of free ground is so disposed," showing that where there is love for a garden, almost no plot is too small for its expression.

Garden planning takes a great deal of thought and it is not easy to find time for careful thought in the busy spring season. Then tasks crowd upon us, always more than there is time to do, but gardening is enjoyable.

Having surrendered his front yard to purely ornamental purposes, the home owner seeking outdoor comfort, coolness and privacy, turns naturally to the back yard; and it is here the outdoor living room has been developed. The private garden is a room primarily for the owner's enjoyment, and in that essential requirement is to be found the reason why the modern style treats lightly questions which have sometimes been thought of great importance; such as the relative merits and fitness of formal and naturalistic planting. An outdoor room, like an indoor room, calls for design.

Dear Editor:

THE reason why I pay less and less attention to advice is that so often it's purely negative.

I wrote a piece for a club paper once and showed it to a fellow member. "I'd be afraid of it," he urged, so I tore it up. Later I was sorry. Good-hearted impulses so rarely see the light!

The difference between a scolding mother and a Boy Scout troop is that the mother hushes her boys all the time and the scout leader gives them something positive to do. One says so, the other says yes.

I've often thought the Ten Commandments would have been more effective if they had been positive instead of negative. We get too many don'ts in this world! More and more I want to write as I feel, to act as my good heart directs, to be natural. It takes courage, but the results are clarifying.—FRED BAYTON, (Copyright.)

THE WAY

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE little road climbs up the hill And ambles down the dell, And I can't see but that it fills its place about as well. As sunny roads more wide, more proud.

The roads familiar to the crowd. It has its gates to lead men to, its fields to bring them from, its little doors when day is through. Where men thank God for come. There's nothing better, after all, A road can do, if great or small.

And most of us are little roads. What matter, small or great? If we as bravely bear our loads, Being some one to his gate? To some one else, as well as they, The least of us can be the way. (Copyright, Douglas Malloch.)

Mother's Cook Book

God gives all man all earth to love, But since man's heart is small, Ordains for each one spot shall prove Beloved over all. —Kipling.

VARIOUS GOOD THINGS

WHILE the radishes are plentiful try cooking them as follows:

Creamed Radishes.
Wash large white radishes, but do not peel them. Cut into quarters and cook in very little water, slightly salted. When tender drain and pour over a rich white sauce, sprinkle with paprika and serve hot.

Radish tops, beet tops, young turnip tops, make the finest kind of greens.

If there is not enough of one kind mix—add some rag weed, or tender stalks of milk weed. Wild mustard when the leaves are tender, adds much to a salad. Use with lettuce or any green salad.

Summer Squash.

So few vary this delicious vegetable from the simple cooking in water and seasoning with butter, pepper and salt. Try cutting in slices, dip into egg and crumbs or a fritter batter and fry in butter until tender and brown. It will be as much enjoyed as eggplant.

Distum Ditty Rabbit.

Take one cupful each of tomatoes and grated cheese, one slice of onion, one chopped green pepper, two eggs and one chopped pimento. Mix the tomato, cheese, pepper and onion. Melt two tablespoonsful of butter, add the vegetables, stir until well heated and the cheese is melted. Add the beaten eggs very slowly and cook until creamy, stirring constantly. Serve on buttered toast or wafers.

New Peas With Bacon.

Shell and cook fresh peas in as little water as possible, adding one-half teaspoonful each of salt and sugar. Drain and cover with a nicely seasoned cream sauce. Meantime fry crisply six to eight slices of bacon, drain and sprinkle over the peas; serve at once. This will take the place of a meat dish for dinner.

String Beans Au Gratin.

Wash and cut into half-inch pieces, cook in salted water with a half teaspoonful of sugar; when nearly tender drain and place in a baking dish in layers, adding each seasoning as needed. A little shredded onion if liked, adding grated cheese to each layer. Top with buttered crumbs, after adding three tablespoonsful of rich milk or cream. Bake to a delicate brown and serve from the dish.

Banana and Cranberry Jam.

Take one pound of cranberries, one pound of bananas, one and one-half cupfuls of water, seven cupfuls of sugar, and one-half cupful of pectin. Crush the fruit to a pulp and mix, add sugar after the cranberries and water have been cooked together covered ten minutes. Bring to a boil, add the pectin, stirring well, skim and pour into jars. Seal as usual.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

THE WORD "WICKED"

WHO would imagine for a moment that the word "wicked," meaning "evil," could have anything to do with the wick of a candle? Yet, strange as it may seem, that is exactly how it started!

The presence in our language of the word "wicked," meaning bad, is due to ecclesiastical usage. In this connection we find constant reference to the good as "the lights of the earth" and the evil as "smoldering wicks," while the Bible contains repeated metaphorical references in the expression, "the candle of the wicked shall be put out."

It is the ancient Saxons who really adapted the word "wicked" to everyday usage in its present sense. They burned reeds for wicks in their primitive beehives.

Potato Crop In South Is Small

Low Yields Offset 15 Per Cent Larger Acreage Planted In 1930 Season

Unfavorable weather, causing low yields in the early potato-producing sections of the south, will offset the effects of the 15 per cent increased acreage there and influence the prices which will be received for Ohio-grown potatoes this summer, says C. R. Arnold, extension economist for the Ohio State University.

The average yield an acre has been reported for the Texas and Florida districts at about 86 bushels compared to 112 for the 1929 season, and the yield in the early potato states from North Carolina to Alabama and Texas, is now estimated at 119 bushels compared to 128 bushels for the preceding season. These average yields, says Arnold, will produce about 25 million bushels, almost equal to the crop of 24 1/2 million in 1929.

The potato crop for the country in 1929 was 357 million bushels, almost 110 million bushels less than for the previous year, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. This comparatively small crop is now practically removed from the market, says Arnold, and will not greatly influence the price to be received for early potatoes in Ohio.

Berates Quack Lice Remedies

Drugs Taken Internally Fail to Kill Lice and Mites of Chickens

Drugs added to the drinking water will not kill lice and mites on poultry. The insects are on the bodies of the birds, and must be attacked from the outside, states P. B. Zumbro, extension specialist in poultry for the Ohio State University, in a warning to poultry growers to beware of quack remedies and cures for these troubles.

For the control of lice Zumbro recommends the use of a 40 per cent solution of nicotine sulfate as the simplest method. A little of this poison, a by-product of the tobacco industry, painted on the roosts just before the chickens roost for the night, kills the lice, Zumbro says. The chemical volatilizes very rapidly, creating a poisonous gas which is harmless to the birds but deadly to the lice. For the treatment of single birds, dipping in a solution of sodium fluoride, or applying four or five pinches of the chemical to parts of the bird's body, is recommended. One treatment a year is usually sufficient.

On the other hand mites must be taken care of more regularly, at least once a month, he says. The treatment is equally simple—just paint the roosts with carbolineum in the day time. The mites spend their days on the roosts and their nights on the chickens, while lice always stay on the chickens, Zumbro explains.

1,000 Join Up For Better Tomatoes

Canners and Growers Cooperate in Agricultural Extension Improvement Project

About 1,000 Ohio growers of tomatoes for the canning industry are co-operating in the tomato project which has been sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service of the Ohio State University.

Ten of the 14 important cannery companies in the state are taking part in the project by offering a bonus for increased yields of tomatoes, and are assisting in distributing the information from the specialists of the agricultural extension service.

Meetings have been held in most of the important tomato-producing districts of the state for the organization of "tomato clubs" whose members follow the "ten commandments" drawn up by the university specialists.

One of the principal objectives of the project aside from distributing information to the growers, is the collection of information and data on the conditions under which tomatoes are grown in this state for the canning trade.

Similar work is under way among the growers of sweet corn for the canning trade, with the growers organizing into clubs for receiving the recommendations and assistance of the specialists.
